The past eighteen months have been so difficult for everyone, and it doesn't seem to be slowing down. In addition to the pandemic, a large stressor for our patients has been the dramatic shift in obgyn care in southern Delaware. Dover has endured the loss of three obgyn practices in the last eighteen months. Lewes has also lost multiple obstetrician/gynecologists, and now Seaford is losing providers as well. This has led to a dire shortage of obgyn practitioners in the area.

Our practice has struggled to keep up as "the last one standing." We are doing our best to take care of the majority of the obgyn needs of our newly expanded community. We accommodate as many patients into the schedule as is safely possible. Our practitioners have forgone summer vacations and time with their families in their commitment to the women of Delaware. Please know we would never cancel your appointment without due cause. We only reschedule when a patient needs urgent surgery, or to ensure our obligation to staffing the Kent labor and delivery unit 24/7/365. Because we are at capacity, we don't have the ability to reschedule in a timely manner. We are also sensitive to the desire for patients to see "their" provider, but this goal has been often unattainable in recent months.

There is hope on the horizon! Our recruitment efforts have paid off, and we are pleased to announce the arrival of two new providers: Dr. Kerry Campbell, and Monica Evans, CNM. We will also be joined by Dr. Abha Gupta and Dr. Ian Baxter in January. As we strive to care for our more complex pregnant patients, we also welcome Dr. Andrew Ward, a specialist in Maternal-Fetal Medicine. We will continue to deliver all our pregnant patients at Bayhealth's Kent Campus.

We take pride in our professionalism, and it is very important for us that you continue to trust us not only as health care providers but also as community members. Moving forward please expect to see a return to the excellent customer service for which Dedicated to Women has been known. There will be shorter wait times to get appointments, fewer appointments rescheduled, and greater ease getting to see the provider of your choice.

Please stay safe and get vaccinated.
